McCree General Contractors recently began construction on a major renovation project located at Winter Park Towers

Orlando, FL, November 5, 2013: McCree General Contractors recently began a major renovation project at Winter Park Towers, a retirement community owned and operated by Westminster Communities of Florida, an industry leader of not-for-profit retirement communities.

This project represents the opening of a new chapter in McCree's long business relationship with Westminster Communities of Florida. The 18,000 square foot project will be focused on multiple floors of the original building, significantly updating and improving interior spaces to ensure that all sections of the campus meet Westminster's high demands for quality design and construction. These renovations are important for Winter Park Towers, an active senior living community, where residents are the number one priority. Completing construction projects on an occupied campus is always challenging, but at a retirement community you are working where people live, adding a new level of complexity to scheduling and logistics. McCree is extremely familiar with the demands of such projects, and we are excited by this new opportunity.

"We greatly value our relationship with Westminster Communities," said Richard McCree, Jr., the President and CEO of McCree. "We have achieved great success with Westminster Communities in the past on multiple projects, and we look forward to continuing this trend in the future."

McCree is currently over 87 years old, having been founded in 1926, and we are in our 4th generation of McCree family ownership. McCree General Contractors specializes in providing construction management services from the beginning of the design phase to construction completion, and over the years we have achieved success with a wide variety of over 1,500 clients. McCree General Contractors is a truly integrated General Contractor, and we have Licensed Architects, Professional Engineers, and General Contractors on staff at all times. This foundation of talent, knowledge, and experience allows McCree to ensure that all projects are completed on time, within budget, and exceeding expectations for quality.
